I can find no basis which would permit the DD/S to approve WH Division's request to extend the temporary lodging allowance period for one of its employees.

Agency regulation specifies that the Standardized Regulations, issued by the Department of State, shall be the basis for granting standardized allowances to staff employees. The home service transfer allowance, of which temporary lodging is a part, is granted to an employee for extraordinary and necessary expenses incident to the establishment of his residence at a post in the United States between assignments at posts in foreign areas. The Standardized Regulations provide for a grant of temporary lodging allowance for periods during which expenses for temporary lodging were incurred within a specified time limit; a total of 30 calendar days for an employee with family.

The Regulations are solid on the subject and the facts supporting the case do not appear to meet the criteria established for determination by the DD/S.
